

Expert guidance on education for girls

Welcome back to MyDaughter! As ever, we welcome your input and our experts have been busy answering your questions on education issues and also those tricky emotional ones. Plus, our popular Heads' Tips feature returns tackling the topical subject of internet safety. Take a look at what's new on MyDaughter.co.uk below...

What's new on MyDaughter?

The internet is everywhere - at school, at home, via computers, mobiles and games consoles. Social networking, instant messaging, chat rooms - your daughter may be more familiar with them than you - so are you a switched on parent when it comes to your daughter's online safety?

Read our Heads' Tips on internet safety offering advice for mums and dads, useful links, and tips for girls. Then take part in the latest MyDaughter poll and let us know how safe you think your daughter is online...

With entrance exams looming many parents will be asking themselves whether some extra help might be needed to give their daughters a boost. Read our heads' responses to a subscriber's question - Does my daughter need a tutor? Other education queries answered this month include 11 + hopes and fears, and advice on how to help your daughter choose between IB and A levels.

Need some advice? Here at MyDaughter.co.uk our team of experts continue to answer your questions on all aspects of raising your daughter such as pre-teens pushing the boundaries, helping your daughter cope with bullying in the classroom, and offer their advice on keeping lines of communication open during fraught family disputes.

Don't forget, if you want to see a topic featured on MyDaughter in the future, just Ask us a question...

