

Privacy Notice – Coronavirus - Track and Trace

The development of the NHS 'Track and Trace' scheme is a key part of the government plan to manage Coronavirus.

As more pupils are returning to School, the safety and wellbeing of pupils, staff and their families is a priority. Planning to manage a safe return is in place, however our responsibility extends beyond the school gates.

In order to respond to requests from NHS Track and Trace, we may need to share data that we hold – this is likely to be limited to name, address, contact details and attendance information. There is an obligation to support government planning. We will provide details as requested to do this.

We may also be required to share information on visitors to the site. Again, this information will be kept to a minimum and information about visitors which has not been requested within 60 days will be deleted.

We will be sharing data on the basis that this is a Public Duty (see below) and that in the case of any health data it is necessary for the public interest, as set out. Please be assured that we will keep a record of information that we share and information shared will be kept to a minimum.

This Privacy Notice should be read alongside the other GDPR and Data Protection documents on our website.

NHS Test and Trace and the law

The law on protecting personally identifiable information, known as the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), allows Public Health England to use the personal information collected by NHS Test and Trace.

The section of the GDPR that applies is:

Article 6(1)(e) 'processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the controller'

As information about health is a special category of personal information, a further section of the GDPR applies:

Article 9(2)(i) 'processing is necessary for reasons of public interest in the area of public health, such as protecting against serious cross-border threats to health or ensuring high standards of quality and safety of healthcare'

Public Health England also has special permission from the Secretary of State for Health and Social Care to use personally identifiable information without people's consent where this is in the public interest. This is known as 'Section 251' approval and includes the use of the information collected by NHS Test and Trace to help protect the public from coronavirus. The part of the law that applies here is Section 251 of the National Health Service Act 2006 and the associated Health Service (Control of Patient Information) Regulations 2002.
